Restrictive Intervention Policy

Key Terminology

For clarity, this policy will use the following definitions:

Restrictive intervention: a means to prevent, restrict, or subdue movement of the body, or part of the body, of a pupil.

Reasonable force: a term used in legislation which includes physical restrictive interventions. All members of school staff have the legal power to use reasonable force in limited circumstances. Reasonable means using no more force than is necessary for the least amount of time, the application of which will depend on the circumstances.

Significant incident: any incident where the use of force goes beyond appropriate physical contact between pupils and staff as described in 'Other physical contact with pupils' within this document.

Seclusion: a non-disciplinary intervention involving keeping a pupil confined to a place away from others, and preventing them from leaving either by physical obstruction, blocking, or making them believe they will be punished if they try to leave.

Restraint: a term used in legislation referring to a non-disciplinary intervention which immobilises a pupil or limits their movement. This may or may not include direct physical contact. For example, holding a pupil's arms to their sides or removing a pupil's crutches would both be considered forms of restraint.

All staff at St. Joseph's Catholic Primary School recognise that the use of reasonable force is only one of the strategies available to secure pupil safety/well-being.

Our policy on the use of restrictive intervention and reasonable force is part of our overall pastoral care procedures.

This policy should be read in conjunction with associated policies:

- Behaviour policy
- Department for Education guidance: Searching, screening and confiscation. Advice for Schools, July 2022;
- Safeguarding and child protection policy

Legal Framework

Restrictive Interventions, Including Use of Reasonable Force, in Schools - Guidance for Schools in England (Department for Education, 2026) allows all staff at a school to use reasonable force to keep children safe. It also allows other adults in the school to use physical interventions, where reasonable, proportionate and necessary to ensure the safety of children.

The right for school staff to use reasonable force is further set out in Behaviour in Schools (Department for Education, 2024), which states that members of staff have the power to use reasonable force to prevent or stop a pupil from:

- causing injury to themselves or others;
- committing a criminal offence;
- damaging property; and/or
- causing disorder among pupils at the school, whether during a teaching session or otherwise.

Restrictive intervention should only be used when all other strategies which do not employ force have been tried and found unsuccessful, or in an emergency situation. It should be avoided where possible.

Reasonable minimal force must be a matter of personal judgement. All teachers have a professional 'duty of care' within their job description, which is underwritten by the Department of Education Teacher Standards.

Staff who are likely to need to use reasonable force and/or other restrictive interventions will be adequately trained in its safe and lawful use, and in preventative strategies.

Communicating the school's approach to the use of force

DFE guidance states that:

- Schools do not require parental consent to use force on a pupil;
- Schools should not have a 'no contact' policy. There is a real risk that such a policy might place a member of staff in breach of their duty of care towards a pupil, or prevent them from taking action needed to prevent a pupil from causing harm; and
- There are circumstances when it is appropriate for staff to have some physical contact with pupils which does not give rise to any question over the use of reasonable force and other restrictive interventions. This will depend on the circumstance, but examples of occasions when physical contact is generally appropriate include:
 - to administer first aid;
 - to guide or escort pupils, such as holding the hand of a pupil at the front/back of the line when going to assembly, when walking together around the school or on a school trip, or when helping a pupil to a space they have chosen to access to self-regulate; and/or
 - to comfort a distressed pupil

Determining when use of restrictive interventions is appropriate

There will be times when school staff may need to use restrictive interventions, and they should know this option may be available to them. The decision on whether it is reasonable to use a restrictive intervention depends on the individual circumstances of each situation.

To make this assessment, the member of staff should consider the following:

Is it necessary?

- Staff should consider whether there are other more effective, less restrictive ways to manage a situation and assess whether a restrictive intervention is likely to successfully reduce the relevant risks.
- Where possible, staff should communicate with other staff members to understand any broader risks in the environment.

Is it proportionate?

- Staff should use the least amount of force or least restrictive intervention necessary for the least amount of time required to reduce the relevant risks.
- If the intervention itself is escalating the situation, staff should reconsider their approach and attempt an alternative strategy.
- Staff should consider the personal circumstances of the pupil such as medical conditions, special educational needs or other vulnerabilities, their characteristics such as age and size, and must consider relevant equality implications under the Equality Act 2010.

Have you considered the pupil's welfare?

- Staff should consider the impact on the pupil's overall welfare, balanced against any actions taken. For example, pupils who have experienced an adverse life event, with diagnosed or undiagnosed medical conditions or sensory impairments past trauma or neglect, communication difficulties, or other needs, may find the use of restrictive interventions particularly distressing.
- Staff should seek to maintain respect for a pupil's dignity. This may include, where possible, considering the location and environment where any intervention is used, such as in front of their peers.
- Where possible, staff should clearly and calmly communicate to the pupil what is happening, why, and explain what the pupil needs to do.
- For pupils with difficulties with speech, language and communication, or with English as an additional language, verbal and/or non-verbal strategies should be used to ensure the pupil understands what is happening and has adequate time to process information and respond.
- Staff should seek to understand how the pupil is feeling and use this information to determine whether the restrictive intervention should be, or continue to be, applied, reduced or stopped.

This list of factors is not exhaustive, and staff should also take into account other relevant considerations.

We will always look to minimise the need to use restrictive interventions, such as through prevention, de-escalation, and approaches for individual pupils.

Whole school measures may include but may not be limited to:

- development of working staff-pupil relationships and trust
- training staff in effective communication strategies, such as using an appropriate tone of voice and empathy to aid de-escalation;
- sharing best practice for behaviour management, and for managing communal spaces such as corridors and playgrounds across:
 - the whole school;
 - classroom;
 - social areas and communal spaces; and
 - on an individual pupil basis.
- consideration of how the school and classroom environment can support all pupils to achieve and flourish;
- recording and analysing data on the use of restrictive interventions to inform improvement planning, risk assessment and creation of individual support plans.

It is unlawful to use force as a punishment

Power to search pupils without consent

In addition to the general power to use reasonable force described above, Headteachers and authorised staff can use such force as is reasonable, given the circumstances to conduct a search for “legally prohibited items.”

Searches will be conducted in line with the statutory Searching, Screening and Confiscation in Schools guidance. (Department for Education, July 2022.)

Risk assessment/support plan

Some children with SEND or additional needs may require an individual risk assessment/support plan/behaviour plan/positive handling plan. This will be communicated with parents/carers and reviewed and updated accordingly. We will attempt to reduce risk by managing:

- the environment, including reducing stimuli or triggers that may be causing stress;
- body language; and
- communication.

Any medical factors MUST be considered in any plan and further advice may be sought.

Plans may also include:

- highlighting reactive strategies to de-escalate a conflict or to defuse a situation and holds to be used if necessary;
- briefing staff to ensure they know exactly what action they should be taking (this may identify a need for training or guidance);
- circumstances where it may be appropriate for staff to have increased physical contact with a pupil;
- ensuring that additional support can be summoned if appropriate; and/or
- informing parents/carers to ensure that they are clear about the specific action the school might need to take, and that these will be reviewed after significant incidents.

Where there is an identified risk, such as an increased likelihood in the need to use reasonable force and/or other restrictive interventions, we will have a specific risk assessment/plan in place and where possible, to mitigate risks such as through staff training and prevention strategies.

Reporting and recording

Statutory guidance states that governing bodies of maintained schools and the proprietors of other schools must ensure that a procedure is in place for recording each significant incident in which a member of staff uses force on a pupil, as part of the school's duty under section 93A of the Education and Inspections Act 2006.

We will contact parents/carers to share incidents as appropriate and for every significant incident. This is a statutory requirement.* Parents/carers should be contacted as soon as possible following a significant incident, and the incident explained to them. This action will also be recorded.

In deciding what a serious incident is, school leaders will use their professional judgment and consider the following:

- pupil's behaviour and the level of risk presented at the time of the incident;
- degree of force used;
- effect on the pupil or member of staff; and
- the child's age.

Staff will record, using the form at Appendix A, all incidents of restrictive intervention, in accordance with school policy, and report these to the Headteacher.

Details must include:

- names of pupil and staff directly involved;
- any relevant needs or circumstances of the pupil, including whether the pupil involved has an identified special educational need or disability and their SEN status code;

- time, date, location and approximate duration of the intervention;
- brief account of the incident; including what led up to the incident, identified or potential triggers (if known), any preventative or de-escalation strategies used, and (where relevant) what type of reasonable force was applied, the degree of force, and details of any physical injuries sustained;
- brief account of why the use of force was assessed as necessary in that instance; and
- any post-incident support, such as details of any medical treatment for injuries or other adverse impacts.

A report of the incident made to parents should include the following details as a minimum:

- time, date, location and approximate duration of the intervention;
- brief account of why the intervention was assessed as necessary in that instance;
- brief account of what type of force was applied, and the degree of force; and
- details of any physical injuries sustained, if applicable.

School will communicate this in writing to parents electronically.

Where appropriate, we will invite parents/carers into school to discuss significant incidents, to look at any potential warning signs/triggers or actions that may be done differently in the future.

Exceptions to the requirement to report are where: the pupil is aged 20 or over; or it appears to the staff member that doing so would be likely to result in serious harm to the pupil. In this instance, the staff member must report the incident to any parent(s) to whom it can be reported without resulting in significant harm or, if there are none, to the local authority within whose area the pupil is ordinarily resident.*

Seclusion

We may use seclusion as a safety measure to protect a pupil who is experiencing high levels of emotional or behavioural dysregulation and is not acting with intent, or to protect others. Seclusion is a non-disciplinary intervention where a pupil is confined to a place, away from others, and is prevented from leaving until it is safe for them to do so.

The purpose of this seclusion is to help the pupil feel safe. The pupil will be supervised at all times during the period of seclusion. As soon as the immediate risk of harm has reduced, the pupil should be allowed to leave.

An incident involving the use of seclusion must be recorded and reported in accordance with the procedures outlined in the section on 'Recording and reporting'.

Pupil and staff support

As a school, we will evaluate all incidents involving restrictive intervention as soon as practicable after an event to understand why it was used and the impact on pupils and staff. We will also look for any patterns or trends and identify how the use of restrictive interventions may be avoided in the future.

If appropriate, the pupils and staff members involved should receive a medical assessment and any necessary treatment for any injuries as soon as possible. Injuries will be recorded in line with our Health and Safety policy.

The school will also hold follow-up conversations with pupil(s), parent(s)/carer(s) and staff to facilitate reflection and learning and to support pupil and staff wellbeing. This conversation will be part of the debriefing process and will seek to understand what happened during the incident and why it occurred. As a school, we will continue to monitor pupil and staff wellbeing and provide additional support if needed.

Complaints

Please refer to the school/Trust complaints policy.
